To William Lloyd Garrison

Brooklyn, (Conn.). "Enclosed are eight pages more of my sermon." Delivered it to a large audience in Providence. Received W.L.G.'s Address to the Free People of Color. Says that W.L.G. is too severe on the advocates of colonization. "... they do not deserve the unsparing vituperation which you are continually pouring out upon them." W.L.G. ought to rejoice that so much attention is being focused on the problems of the colored people. "I fear I shall not convince you ... you are as pertinacious of your opinions as I am." Recommends Henry E. Benson as an agent in Providence. Schools and colleges must be established for colored people. Points out an error in the Liberator's version of his sermon.

Providence. Replies to S. J. M.'s letter about his manner of speaking on Anti-Slavery subjects. Was upset by the addressee's suggestion that he might have been making enemies for the cause, and cannot imagine who could have complained of his way of arguing. Denies that he ever became angry. Says that he has been frequently been insulted. Has heard men say that they would like to see the negroes blown up with gunpowder or drowned in the sea. Thought S. J. M.'s Address on Slavery "displayed a considerable temper." The writer's brother has received an offer to go into the leather business with William M. Chace. Heard that Anna Braithwaite had persuaded Ram Mohun Roy to become a Trinitarian.

New York. Thanks W.L.G. for the return of $100 which was not needed for the Liberator. Says that he is not receiving the Liberator regularly. Was glad to hear of the founding of the New England Anti-Slavery Society. The Nat Turner rebellion "has paralyzed our Philadelphia friends, and nothing ... can be done there now, towards organizing a National Society". No money can be raised for the negro college. The free negroes may be persecuted "to make them disposed to emigrate." Fears "the vengeance of Heaven" for the people's sinful conduct toward the Indians and the negroes.

•Craftsbury, Vt.: Is convinced that "the principles of the N.E. Anti-Slavery Society are destined, ere long, to supersede the heretical philosophy of the Colonizationists." Tells of a conversation he had with Rev. Chester Wright of Montpelier, Vt., Secretary of the Vermont Colonization Society. Gave a lecture in which he advocated immediate emancipation of the slaves. Thinks that Rev. Wright will be in accord with the Garrisonians on immediate emancipation. L lectured in Craftsbury to an audience which included ex-Gov. Samuel E. Crafts, who will attempt to form an auxiliary to the N.E. A-S Society.

^{Ill.}
Jacksonville, (Fla.). The ideas of W.L.G., the Liberator and the American Colonization Society have been discussed in the writer's community at length. Doubts if the colonization scheme would benefit either negroes or whites. Disapproves of emancipating the slaves without protecting them in some way. They and the community in which they live must be elevated together. Part of the western territories should be assigned to them. Cites the progress of the immigrants in Illinois. Claims that the negroes cannot "be elevated where they are."

Providence, (R.I.). Will go to New York. "The good people of Canterbury I learn have had three Town meetings last week to devise ways and means to suppress P. Crandall's school and I am informed that the excitement is so great that it would not be safe for me to appear there." George Benson went to Canterbury to see what could be done. A. B. has been threatened with excommunication by his church for opposing colonizationism. Wants to visit a friend who may contribute to "our School." Says he could go to Europe if W.L.G. decides not to go.

To William Lloyd Garrison

Providence, (R.I.). Reports on his trip to Canterbury, (Conn.) to investigate the establishment of a school for colored girls. Tells about the committee who called on Prudence Crandall to try to dissuade her from going ahead with her school. They claimed that the colored girls "would claim an equality with the whites ... It was further stated that the value of property would be greatly depreciated." Mentions the use of a Blue Law, which provided for the expulsion of non-residents likely to become "chargeable to the town," to prevent the establishment of the Crandall school.

Western Reserve College, Hudson, O.. Claims that "it is an act of high-handed tyranny for any master to impose upon them the slaves, the necessity of going to Liberia or continuing in servitude ... Every act by which the master controls the movements of his slaves, is an act of tyranny ... Can a man reduce his brother into a piece of property under any higher motive than a love of gain? ... What shall a man do with laws, which require him to commit iniquity? ... Does he the editor of the Recorder, not know that laws, which require men to live in sin, are to be broken ..." The foregoing is a rough draft of an article submitted to the Liberator. B. G. includes a letter of trans[redacted] in which he says he knows the editor of the Recorder.

«Liberia. Says that he "is considered dangerous to the successful operation of the «American Colonization? society." Tells of an attempt by a local official to compel the writer to dissolve his partnership with one R _____. If the Colonization Society continues to pour in immigrants at the usual rate, great suffering will result. There is a great deal of sickness already. The Society is very hostile to him. "I do c ? » assure you that there are a great many contemptible scoundrels here." The writer will leave Liberia in the Spring.

Fall River, Mass.. The writer thinks often of his friends in Philadelphia, and takes courage from the evidence he witnessed there of the colored people's "rapidly rising prospects." Is especially eager to see the recommendation of the Convention respecting Phoenix Societies speedily carried out. "Having for the year past engaged in no other business but that connected with the Anti-Slavery cause," and wishing to devote his life to it, the writer would be glad to settle with his wife and daughter in Philadelphia "and engage in the establishment and promotion of the objects of Phoenix Societies." Would hope to win several thousand members within one year, each paying twenty cents quarterly. A library might be maintained for the use of meetings and lectures held "for their improvement in morals, literature and science." The writer's daughter would open a school for small children. Before devoting himself to this cause, the writer needs the assurance that he will receive about five hundred dollars per annum with which to support two sons at boarding school, his wife and himself. Would make an immediate effort to see that the ten thousand dollars left by a friend for the establishment of a manual labor school were rightly appropriated."

Adams, Jefferson Co., N.Y.. Says he has been converted from the beliefs of the American Colonization Society to those of W. L. Garrison. Realizes that the Society lacks the funds to send any substantial number of slaves to Liberia. Says that in 1830, five hundred slaves were driven through Washington during a three day celebration of the triumph of liberty in France. Hopes that "an O'Connell will yet come forth and plead, on the floor of Congress, ... for the abolition of slavery, at least, in the District of Columbia ..." Brooklyn, Conn.: Calls S. J. W.'s attention to the Proceedings of the London Peace Society's annual meeting as reported in the London Herald of Peace. Capt. T. Pilkington, formerly of the British Royal Engineers, made an important speech. The King of France and several of his ministers have joined the Society of Christian Morals. The Report and Proceedings of the Massachusetts Peace Society also appeared in the London Herald of Peace. Thinks that no reference should be made to anything in the London Herald in the annual report of "our Peace Society."

cNew York: A report of the proceedings of a meeting of the American Anti-Slavery Society called "in reference to the affairs of the Liberator ...". It was voted to purchase certain pamphlets (British Opinions, Rankin's Letters, London Speeches), and a resolution was adopted which stated that the Society was without funds, and that any future contributions will have to be devoted to the Society's own purposes. The Society would not buy the Abolitionist, because it was a New England periodical. Thinks that the N.E. Abolitionists should try to pay their own debts. It was suggested that the Liberator be merged with the Emancipator.

Boston. The writer describes her journey to Hingham and her delightful visit there. Received more than twenty calls the day after her arrival. Tells at whose houses she dined and took tea, and of making calls; "... I am begun(!) to entertain an idea that I was really something very extraordinary." Tells of Mr. Barton's insisting she call on his invalid wife. Returning to Boston, found all well but Maria Weston Chapman with the toothache. No news of Anne Warren Weston. "Got Henry Barton Chapman, to clinch the house for me." Has another scholar—a Miss Eaton, and "all things look bright." Tells of acquiring household equipment. Would like to be taken to Weymouth Saturday. [redacted] from a note received from Mrs. Bates; "We think Caroline is undertaking rather too much."

«Cormwall, (near Middlebury, Vt.)» Has complied with an offer contained in the Liberator which says" 'That if each subscriber, would take it upon him to procure one additional subscriber, it would place the paper on a permanent foundation.'" Wants the Liberator sent to Capt. Abram Foot, S. S. Halladay and C. W. Wicker. Says that the sentiment in favor of Slavery is very strong in his part of Vermont. Comments on the slow Anti-Slavery progress made by «Orson S.?» Murray. Suggests that W.L.G. visit Vermont to counteract the influence of the Vermont Chronicle and enlist prominent citizens in the Abolitionist cause.

«Boston: Convention of delegates from the New England societies had better be delayed till summer. Meeting of New England Anti-Slavery Society at Temple was grandest ever held in Boston. Speakers: W.L.G.; Prof. «C.T.C.» Follen; Rev. «Cyrus Pitt» Grosvenor; Rev. «Henry» Grew. Boston was saved from "colonization corruption." Vermont has new A-S societies. Dr. Channing, unable to attend, thought to favor immediate emancipation.
